MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

Plaintiffs hereby move for clarification of those portions of the Court's November 1, 2016 Order (Dkt. 95) ("Order") on Defendants' Motion to Dismiss the Second Consolidated Amended Complaint ("SCAC") addressing the temporal parameters of preemption and dismissing Counts I – III and V – VII¹ of the SCAC (the "Dismissed Claims") (Order at 14-15).² In the alternative, Plaintiffs move for reconsideration of these portions of the Order pursuant to Rules 54(b), 60(b)(1), (3) and (6), Local Rule 7-18, and/or the Court's inherent power to revise its decisions prior to judgment.³ In the event that the Court denies all of the foregoing, Plaintiffs respectfully request that the Court enter judgment pursuant to Rule 54(b) as to the claims it has dismissed⁴ and as to Plaintiffs Larry Diek, Frank Perez, Paul Pisciotto and Tanya Mullins who brought those claims (the "Dismissed Plaintiffs") so that their dismissal may be immediately appealed. Finally, in the event that the Court does not

¹ The Court did not dismiss Count IV, brought by Plaintiff Michael Whitney on behalf of the California Class, seeking injunctive and equitable relief for violations of California's Unfair Competition Law based on violations of Proposition 65.

² If the Court grants clarification or reconsideration of these portions of its Order, it will be necessary for the Court also to revisit the substantive arguments that the parties made with respect to Plaintiffs' Illinois state law claims, which the Court did not reach as it found them to be preempted. Order at 15. The validity of the Illinois claims has been fully briefed. Dkt. 74, 80 and 81.

³ For clarity, Plaintiffs note the portions of the Order they seek to have addressed differ depending on the relief the Court decides to grant, if any. If clarification or reconsideration is granted, Plaintiffs seek it only as to the Order provisions on whether the preemption clause applies retroactively (preempts claims about newly deemed tobacco products based on events prior to the Final Rule's effective date).

⁴ Such judgment should also include the claims that this Court, in its April 22, 2016 order on Defendants' motion to dismiss Plaintiffs' Consolidated Amended Complaint (Dkt. 60) dismissed as to affirmative misrepresentations or in full. These claims, the "CAC Dismissed Claims," are described further herein.

1 grant any of the foregoing relief, Plaintiffs respectfully request certification for 2 interlocutory appeal, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1292(b), of all parts of the Order
3 concerning preemption. Order at 2-12 and 14-15.⁵

4 I. INTRODUCTION

5 Plaintiffs respectfully submit that clarification is necessary to address an 6 internal contradiction in the Order concerning preemption by the FDA's Final Rule 7 Deeming Tobacco Products to be Subject to the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic
8 Act as Amended by the Family Smoking Prevention and Tobacco Control Act
9 ("TCA") 81 Fed. Reg. 28974 (May 10, 2016) ("Final Rule"). Although, in the Order, 10 this Court held that preemption under the Final Rule began on August 8, 2016, which 11 the Court deemed to be the effective date for the relevant portion of the rule (Order at 12 14), it seemingly dismissed the Dismissed Claims in full, even to the extent those 13 claims arise from Defendants' actions before August 8, 2016. (Order at 14-15.) This 14 is logically inconsistent and thus leads to a confusing and erroneous result. For 15 example, as it now stands, the Order dismisses valid claims for damages arising from 16 conduct occurring in 2010, more than five years prior to the date the Court determined 17 that preemption began. If the Court grants clarification, Plaintiffs respectfully request 18 that it make clear that Plaintiffs' claims are only preempted so far as they relate to 19 Defendants' wrongdoing that occurred after August 8, 2016. Simply put, this Court's 20 holding that preemption began on August 8, 2016 can only logically lead to the 21 conclusion that Plaintiffs' claims, which accrued prior to that date, must be allowed 22 to proceed, but the putative class periods will end on August 7, 2016. Moreover, the 23 ⁵ If partial judgment is granted under Rule 54(b), as required by that rule, it will be 24 as to all of each Dismissed Claim and Dismissed Plaintiff. If relief is only granted 25 under 28 U.S.C. § 1292(b), consistent with the requirements of that rule discussed 26 herein, Plaintiffs will seek certification of all preemption issues, not only those 27 related to retroactivity.

1 Order contains no analysis to support a finding that the TCA preemption clause is 2 retroactive. If these live claims are dismissed, it will divest these Plaintiffs of vested 3 claims that accrued prior to the preemption date.

4 If such clarification is denied, reconsideration of certain aspects of the Order 5 will be warranted for several reasons. First, this Court misinterpreted the “continuing 6 in effect” language in the Final Rule’s preemption clause. The Court’s error is 7 understandable because Defendants cited to inapplicable cases on this point and, due 8 to Court-ordered simultaneous supplemental submission by the parties, Plaintiffs 9 were unable to respond. Also, having had only one-sided argument on the meaning 10 of “continue in effect” and whether that implied retroactivity, the Court declined to 11 apply Landgraf v. USI Film Products, 511 U.S. 244 (1994), the Supreme Court’s 12 essential decision on retroactivity, in the preemption context, although Landgraf 13 applies to all federal statutes, including those with preemption clauses. Moreover, 14 this Court appears to have overlooked Plaintiffs’ citation of several cases holding that 15 preemption is applied prospectively, after a preemptive statute’s effective date. Dkt.
16 91, at 13-14. Finally, reconsideration is warranted because the Order as it stands 17 works a manifest injustice on Plaintiffs as it terminates the vast majority of their 18 claims on faulty grounds.

19 If reconsideration is denied, because these issues are so central to the litigation, 20 they cannot fairly be left in limbo until the end of the case. In such event, a Final 21 Judgment under Rule 54(b) should be entered on the Dismissed Claims and the CAC 22 Dismissed Claims, and as to the Dismissed Plaintiffs who brought only those Claims.
23 The Dismissed Claims, CAC Dismissed Claims and Dismissed Plaintiffs are 24 sufficiently distinct to allow for entry of judgment. In the alternative, the Court’s 25 rulings on pre-emption should be certified, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. 1292(b), for 26 interlocutory appeal, as they concern controlling issues of law with respect to the 27 Dismissed Claims on which there is substantial ground for disagreement. This

1 controlling issue of law is a question as to which there is a finite, yes or no answer –
2 whether the Final Rule is preemptive or not – and on which Judges in this District
3 have recently disagreed. If this Court declines to revisit its Order, Plaintiffs 4 respectfully submit that the question should be resolved at this time by the Ninth 5 Circuit.

6 II. RELEVANT PROCEDURAL HISTORY

7 The first case in these consolidated actions was filed on April 22, 2015, more 8 than a year before the Final Rule was even published, much less became effective.
9 All of the cases herein were consolidated by December 8, 2015. Dkt. 40. Each 10 Plaintiffs' purchases were made between 2012 and early 2015, and the Plaintiffs were 11 injured by omissions Defendants made at such times. SCAC ¶¶ 18, 20, 22, 24, 26.
12 Thus, all events relating to their claims were completed before the Final Rule was 13 issued. The class periods began, for the California Class, on April 22, 2011, for the 14 New York Class, on October 2, 2012, for the Illinois Class based on fraudulent 15 concealment, on October 2, 2010, and for the Illinois Class based on violation of the 16 ICFA, on October 2, 2012, and the wrongdoing at issue for each class began no later 17 than those dates. Id. at ¶¶ 102-104.

18 On April 22, 2016, this Court issued an order granting in part and denying in 19 part Defendants' motion to dismiss Plaintiffs' Amended Consolidated Complaint.
20 Dkt. 60. Although it dismissed many of Plaintiffs' affirmative misrepresentation 21 claims, the Court found that, as to Plaintiffs' omissions claims based on California 22 and New York law, "Plaintiffs' allegations that Defendants disclosed only the risks 23 of nicotine without disclosing the presence and risk of formaldehyde and the dangers 24 of taking deeper or more breaths of an e-cigarette adequately states a claim for 25 fraudulent partial misrepresentations." Id. at 22. Plaintiffs thus had live claims under 26 the California's Consumers Legal Remedies Act ("CLRA"), Unfair Competition Law

1 (“UCL”), False Advertising Law for Deceptive, False, and Misleading Advertising
2 (“FAL”), and New York’s General Business Law (“GBL”). Id. at 25.

3 It was not until May 10, 2016, after the California and New York omissions 4 claims had withstood a motion to dismiss and more than five years after the conduct 5 at issue began, that the FDA published the Final Rule which, inter alia, made 6 electronic cigarettes subject to the TCA. As to preemption, the TCA provides that 7 “[n]o State or political subdivision of a State may establish or continue in effect with 8 respect to a tobacco product any requirement which is different from, or in addition 9 to, any requirement under the provisions of this subchapter relating to tobacco product 10 . . . labeling.” 21 U.S.C. § 387p(a)(2)(A). The Final Rule sets forth dates in the future
11 when its various provisions would take effect, ranging from three months to two years 12 after its May 10, 2016 publication, meaning some provisions would take effect on 13 August 8, 2016, and others would take effect on May 10, 2018. It did not provide 14 for e-cigarettes to be subject to the TCA immediately, much less retroactively.

15 On May 23, 2016, with leave of Court and before any part of the Final Rule 16 became effective, Plaintiffs filed the SCAC,⁶ and on July 1, 2016, Defendants filed a 17 second motion to dismiss. On September 15, 2016, with the motion fully briefed, the 18 Court requested supplemental briefing as to the time period to which the preemption 19 clause of the TCA would apply under the Final Rule.⁷ The Court also allowed 20 briefing as to Greene, et al. v. Five Pawns, Inc., issued on August 30, 2016 (C.D. Cal., 21 Case No. SA CV 15-1859), in which Judge Carter came to the opposite conclusion as 22 this Court, holding that the Final Rule did not have preemptive effect on similar 23 claims.

24 ⁶ The SCAC added a claim under Illinois law for fraudulent concealment (Count VI), 25 based on the same facts and omissions giving rise to Plaintiffs’ other claims.

26 ⁷ Plaintiffs’ (Dkt. 91) and Defendants’ (Dkt. 92) supplemental memoranda are 27 referenced herein as “Plaintiffs’ Supp. Mem.” and “Def. Supp. Mem.,” respectively.

1 On October 6, 2016, as instructed by the Court, the parties simultaneously 2 submitted supplemental briefing on the commencement date of preemption. In their 3 supplemental brief, Defendants argued for the first time that the phrase “continue in 4 effect” in the preemption clause somehow voids pending litigation based on conduct 5 that was unlawful at the times it occurred, thereby divesting litigants of vested claims.
6 Defendants, indeed, placed a lot of weight on this argument, italicizing the three 7 words “continue in effect” (Def. Supp. Mem. at 2), and repeating them numerous 8 times. Id. at 1-3. As set forth below, Defendants made this argument based on three 9 cases that had nothing to do with applying new law to preempt claims arising from 10 events that occurred before such law’s effective date. Indeed, the only case that 11 Defendants cited on this issue that discussed retroactivity used a standard that was 12 explained to be inapplicable to cases like this one by a subsequent Supreme Court 13 decision that Plaintiffs cited for the standard in their own supplemental brief. Because 14 the briefs were submitted simultaneously, Plaintiffs did not have a chance to address 15 Defendants’ misguided argument directly.

16 On November 1, 2016, this Court issued its ruling on Defendants’ Motion to 17 Dismiss the SCAC. In that Order, the Court held that “the statutory language 18 demonstrates that preemption regarding e-cigarettes began on August 8, 2016,” which 19 means that there could not have been preemption earlier. Order at 14. However, it 20 also seemingly dismissed the Dismissed Claims with prejudice, without 21 distinguishing those parts of such claims that occurred before the effective date of the 22 Final Rule from those that occurred after it.

23 This has given rise to the present motion because if, as the Court specifically 24 held, “preemption regarding e-cigarettes began on August 8, 2016,” id., then it 25 logically follows that Plaintiffs’ claims from the beginning of the statute of limitations 26 for each claim up to and including August 7, 2016 are not preempted and may 27 proceed. Plaintiffs thus seek such relief through this motion.

1 III. ARGUMENT

2 A. The Order Should Be Clarified to Hold That Because Preemption
3 Began on August 8, 2016, Plaintiffs' Claims Arising Before That 4 Date Are Not Preempted and May Proceed

5 Clarification should be granted where an order is ambiguous or confusing.
6 Tessera, Inc. v. UTAC (Taiwan) Corp., No. 5:10-cv-04435-EJD, 2016 U.S. Dist.
7 LEXIS 5654, at *9 (N.D. Cal. Jan. 15, 2016). Here, the Order is internally 8 contradictory, which gives rise to confusion and an erroneous result.

9 First, the Order states that “preemption ... began once the rule became effective 10 on August 8, 2016.” Order at 14. Given that ruling, claims relating only to conduct 11 occurring after that date would be preempted. That is, for the end date of each class 12 period for the asserted claims would be August 7, 2016. However, the Court 13 dismissed Counts I-III and V-VII in full, Order at 14-15, even though the class periods 14 for each of Plaintiffs claims begin well before August 8, 2016, and even though those 15 claims are based on conduct that occurred before August 8, 2016. The Court’s 16 complete dismissal of the Dismissed Claims appears to contradict its holding as to 17 when preemption began.⁸

18 Plaintiffs respectfully submit that the Order should be amended to clarify that 19 Claims I-III and V-VII are dismissed only as to conduct that occurs after the effective 20 date – or, alternatively stated, that the proposed class periods for those claims all end 21 on August 7, 2016.

24 ⁸ Plaintiffs argued in their Supplemental Memorandum that if the Court found the 25 Final Rule preemptive of state law claims, then Plaintiffs’ claims were preserved for 26 the periods before whatever date the Court found preemption began. See Plaintiffs’ 27 Supp. Mem. at 8-12.

1 the court has committed a clear error or if the initial order is manifestly unjust. Meggitt
2 (Orange Cty.), Inc. v. Nie Yongzhong, No. SACV 13-0239-DOC (DFMx), 2014 U.S.
3 Dist. LEXIS 155473, at *5-9 (C.D. Cal. Nov. 3, 2014). Under “Rule 54(b), a district 4 court has inherent authority to ‘reconsider and modify an interlocutory decision for 5 any reason it deems sufficient, even in the absence of new evidence or an intervening 6 change in or clarification of controlling law.’” Labastida v. McNeil Techs., Inc., No.
7 10cv1690-MMA (CAB), 2011 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 18605, at *3-4 (S.D. Cal. Feb. 25, 8 2011) (quoting, Hao-Qi Gong v. City of Alameda, No. C 03-5495 TEH, 2007 U.S.
9 Dist. LEXIS 33820, at *5 (N.D. Cal. Apr. 23, 2007)); see Abada v. Charles Schwab, 10 Inc., 127 F. Supp. 2d 1101, 1102 (S.D. Cal. 2000) (same). Here, reconsideration is 11 warranted under 54(b) because, as explained above, the Court made a clear error in 12 giving retroactive effect to the Final Rule, particularly after concluding that preemption began on August 8, 2016.

13 Under Rule 60(b), “a party may seek reconsideration of a final judgment or 14 court order for any reason that justifies relief, including: (1) mistake, inadvertence, 15 surprise, or excusable neglect; ... (3) ... misrepresentation, or misconduct by an 16 opposing party; or (6) any other reason that justifies relief.” Lions Gate Entm’t, Inc.
17 2016 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 101234, at *5 (quoting Rule 60(b)). Here, reconsideration is 18 warranted under Rule 60(b)(1), (3) and (6), because, as detailed below, as to Rule 19 60(b)(1), Defendants surprised Plaintiffs by advocating a proposed contortion of the 20 facially clear phrase “continue in effect,” and Plaintiffs did not have a chance to 21 respond; as to Rule 60(b)(3), Defendants gave the court a misimpression of the 22 precedent they cited concerning the phrase “continue in effect”; and as to Rule 23 60(b)(6), the Court committed clear error in its retroactivity analysis with harsh and 24 inequitable consequences for Plaintiffs.

25 Under Local Rule 7-18, a motion for reconsideration may be granted where the 26 movant demonstrates “(a) a material difference in fact or law from that presented to

1 the Court before such decision that in the exercise of reasonable diligence could not 2 have been known to the party moving for reconsideration at the time of such decision, 3 or (b) the emergence of new material facts or a change of law occurring after the time 4 of such decision, or (c) a manifest showing of a failure to consider material facts 5 presented to the Court before such decision.” Local Rule 7-18. “Whether to grant a 6 motion for reconsideration under Local Rule 7-18 is a matter within a court’s 7 discretion.” Milton H. Greene Archives, Inc. v. CMG Worldwide, Inc., 568 F. Supp.
8 2d 1152, 1162 (C.D. Cal. 2008). Here, reconsideration is warranted under Local Rule 9 7-18 because, as demonstrated below, Plaintiffs make a manifest showing that the 10 Court did not consider material information that Plaintiffs presented.

11 Finally, “this Court has the inherent authority to reexamine its prior decisions 12 prior to the entry of judgment.” Network Signatures, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 48332, 13 at *5 (Selna, J.) See also Balla v. Idaho State Bd. of Corrections, 869 F.2d 461, 465
14 (9th Cir. 1989) (“Courts have inherent power to modify their interlocutory orders 15 before entering a final judgment.”). “A district court’s authority to rescind an 16 interlocutory order over which it has jurisdiction is an inherent power rooted firmly in 17 the common law and is not abridged by the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.” City of 18 Los Angeles, Harbor Div. v. Santa Monica Baykeeper, 254 F.3d 882, 887 (9th Cir.
2001).

19 Courts in this District readily grant motions for reconsideration where 20 significant facts or precedents were overlooked. For example, reconsideration and 21 revision were granted under Local Rule 7-18 and Rule 60(b) where “the court relied 22 on an outdated statement of law.” Lions Gate Entm’t, 2016 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 101234, 23 at 6-7. Likewise, even where a Central District court does not find it appropriate to 24 reconsider under Local Rule 7-18, it will revisit an order to address rhetorical 25 ambiguity or address an unclear issue. See, e.g., Forest Ambulatory Surgical Assocs.,
26 L.P., 2014 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 186393, at *3-4; Bloch v. Prudential Ins. Co. of Am., No.

CV 05-1589- DT (MCx), 2005 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 47534, at *9 (C.D. Cal. Aug. 9, 2005) (court could not grant reconsideration under Local Rule 7-18, but nonetheless revisited decision where basis for dismissal was unclear).

2. The Court Made an Understandable but Clear Error in Its Interpretation of the Phrase “Continue in Effect” Advanced by Defendants for the First Time in Their Supplemental Memorandum

In the Order, in one short footnote, the Court held that the Supreme Court’s seminal decision in Landgraf v. USI Film Products, 511 U.S. 244 (1994), which sets forth the basic standard for whether any statute or regulation should be given retroactive effect, did not control here because the Supreme Court “did not discuss preemption.” Order at 14, n. 9. The Order offered no explanation as to why the United States Supreme Court’s binding precedent on statutory retroactivity – Landgraf – does not apply to statutory preemption clauses and therefore should be treated differently than all of the other types of statutes for which the Landgraf retroactivity test does govern, but instead quoted the language “continue in effect” from the preemption clause and seemingly gave retroactive effect to the Final Rule. Order at 14.

Reconsideration is warranted here, first, because the Court made a clear error with respect to the meaning of the term “continue in effect,” which works a serious injustice on Plaintiffs. Although the Court did not use the term retroactive, its application of the Final Rule to dismiss claims that were based on conduct that occurred prior to the Final Rule’s effective date can be nothing other than a finding of retroactivity. The Order states that “[t]he regulation recites that ‘[n]o state or political subdivision of a State may establish or continue in effect with respect to a tobacco product any requirement which is different from, or in addition to, any requirement under the provisions of this subchapter with respect to tobacco product ... labeling.’” Order at 14 (emphasis in Order). It appears that the Court is adopting

1 Defendants' interpretation of the "continue in effect" language -- indeed Defendants'
2 Supplemental Memorandum contains identical italics. Def. Supp. Mem. at 2.
3 Defendants, however, gave the Court invalid citations on that point, which Plaintiffs,
4 because of the simultaneous submission of both parties' Supplemental Memoranda, 5 had no opportunity to address. In Lions Gate Entm't, 2016 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 101234, 6 at 6-10, a Central District court granted reconsideration where it had relied upon 7 the wrong legal standard with respect to the issues before it. In U.S. Rubber 8 Recycling, Inc., Inc., 2011 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11678, at 7, 11-15 (C.D. Cal. Jan. 7, 9 2011), another Central District court did the same. Reconsideration is warranted for 10 similar reasons here.

11 In their Supplemental Memorandum, Defendants relied on just a few cases for 12 their argument that "continuing in effect" means the TCA preemption resulting from 13 effectiveness of the Final Rule applies to claims concerning activities already 14 concluded rather than governing how a person or entity regulated by the law must 15 conduct themselves once the law becomes effective.⁹ The only one of these to address 16 retroactivity, Bradley v. Richmond Sch. Bd., 416 U.S. 696, 711 (1974), did not 17 mention preemption. Bradley, moreover, was directly addressed in Landgraf, 511 18 U.S. 244 (cited in Plaintiffs' Supp. Mem. at 9-10), and held by the Supreme Court to 19 be inapplicable to claim-determinative regulations like the preemption clause here. In 20 Landgraf, the Supreme Court stated, "[o]ur holding in Bradley is ... compatible with 21 the line of decisions disfavoring 'retroactive' application of statutes," and clarified 22 that Bradley type retroactivity only applies to new laws "collateral to the main cause 23 of action" and "uniquely separable from the cause of action to be proved at trial."
Landgraf, 511 U.S. at 276-77. In Bradley, the statute retroactively applied concerned

24 ⁹ Defendants also cite one additional case in that portion of their brief, an 1882 case 25 that simply holds that courts should try to give effect to all language in statutes, and 26 that has nothing to do with preemption or retroactivity. Montclair v. Ramsdell, 107
U.S. 147, 152 (1882), cited at Def. Supp. Mem. at 3.

1 attorneys' fees, and the granting or denying of attorneys' fees had no impact on the 2 underlying claims. Id. at 278 (citing Bradley, 416 U.S. at 721).¹⁰ Here, in stark
3 contrast, applying preemption retroactively eradicates all but one of Plaintiffs' causes 4 of action, and thus is not collateral.

5 Defendants' other citation on this point -- the only case they cite that actually 6 includes the language "continue in effect," and their only citation in this argument
7 that actually discusses preemption -- is Riegel v. Medtronic, Inc., 552 U.S. 312, 328
8 (2008). Def. Supp. Mem. at 3. But Riegel concerns preemption of a state law claim 9 that arose in 1996 by a federal statute that was enacted well before that, in 1976. 552
10 U.S. at 316, 320. Riegel therefore does not implicate or even mention retroactivity.
11 It simply does not stand for the principle for which Defendants cited it.

12 Because the parties' supplemental briefs were submitted simultaneously, 13 Plaintiffs could not address Defendants' skewed citations and the Court was left 14 misinformed. Had Plaintiffs had such an opportunity, they could have pointed out 15 that there are, indeed, numerous cases that directly address the words "continue in 16 effect" in statutory preemption provisions and that expressly find that the term cannot 17 be interpreted to preclude pending litigation based on events that have already 18 occurred. Here, given the Court's determination that preemption resulting from the 19 Final Rule began on August 10, 2016, a state may not impose state requirements 20 within the preempted realm to conduct occurring after that date as to do so would be 21 to continue such laws in effect. For example, a claim for injunctive relief seeking to 22 impose a labeling requirement under state law subsequent to August 2016 would be 23 preempted as it would be seeking to continue such labeling requirement in effect. In 24 contrast, a claim for damages arising from a 2012 sale that failed to comply with a

25 ¹⁰ Moreover, as the Supreme Court stated in Landgraf, in Bradley, there was already 26 a significant risk that attorneys' fees would be granted under the pre-existing law, so 27 "the new fee statute simply 'did not impose an additional or unforeseeable 28 obligation.'" Landgraf, 511 U.S. at 278.

1 state labeling requirement is not continuing such requirement in effect, it is merely 2 applying the law as it existed at the time the claim arose.

3 For example, in Gibson v. Dow Chem. Co., 842 F. Supp. 938, 939-40 (E.D. Ky.
4 1992), the court addressed a statute that contained a preemption clause with the 5 “continue in effect” language (the Federal Insecticide Fungicide and Rodenticide Act 6 (FIFRA)), the court explaining that “failure to warn claims are only preempted to the 7 extent they arose after the enactment ...in 1972.” It held, “[it] is simply incorrect that 8 permitting a failure to warn claim based on events prior to 1972 would violate FIFRA 9 as it presently exists [because] [p]ermitting a damage award for failure to warn prior 10 to 1972 would have absolutely no effect on the manner in which FIFRA operates in 11 1992,” in that “[a] damage award for pre-1972 failure to warn would not change the 12 present labeling process, nor would it require changes in existing labels.” Id.

13 In DiPetrillo v. Dow Chem. Co., 729 A.2d 677, 680-81 (R.I. 1999), another 14 court considered the timing of FIFRA preemption based on the “continue in effect” 15 language. It, too, held that where failure to warn claims were based on conduct that 16 occurred before 1972, they were not preempted. Id.

17 Likewise, in Feinberg v. Colgate-Palmolive Co., 2012 NY Slip Op 50515(U), 18 ¶ 3, 34 Misc. 3d 1243(A), 950 N.Y.S.2d 608 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2012), it was held with 19 respect to a preemption clause in the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetics Act that 20 “bars the states from establishing or ‘continu[ing] in effect’ any packaging or labeling 21 requirements ...” that there was not “any implication from the plain language of the 22 statute that the legislature intended it to be applied retroactively.” The court went on 23 to hold that “[n]o matter how strained an interpretation that Colgate would impose on 24 this language, it does not express Congressional intention of retroactivity,” id., and 25 found claims not preempted because they derived from conduct preceding the relevant

1 Act.¹¹ Here, it was only because the interpretation that Defendants gave to “continue 2 in effect” was so “strained,” that they were able to surprise Plaintiffs with it, and 3 Plaintiffs could not have guessed in advance that they should address such a potential 4 interpretation.¹²

5 Thus, because the Court made a clear error in adopting Defendants’ erroneous 6 meaning of “continue in effect” to mean that the statute’s preemption is retroactive, 7 reconsideration is warranted as to Plaintiffs’ claims arising before August 8, 2018 – 8 the date on which this Court held preemption began.

9 3. The Court Erred in Not Applying Landgraf to Preemption
10 Retroactivity

11 Reconsideration is also warranted because the Court erred in refusing to apply 12 Landgraf v. USI Film Products, 511 U.S. 244 (1994)), the Supreme Court’s primary 13 decision on retroactivity. Order at 14, n. 9. In their supplemental briefing, Plaintiffs 14 relied upon Landgraf for its enunciation of the strong presumption against 15 retroactivity, and its three part test for whether a statute should be applied 16 retroactively: 1) whether the statute contains an express statement of temporal reach 17 (the Final Rule does not); 2) whether application of the rule to the present case would 18 have a retroactive effect (here it would); and 3) whether there is evidence of clear 19 legislative intent of retroactivity, bearing in mind the presumption against retroactive 20 litigation (here there is not). Plaintiffs’ Supp. Mem. at 9-12. Applying the three part 21 Landgraf test, Plaintiffs thus demonstrated that to the extent the Final Rule extends

22 ¹¹ Although Feinberg is an unreported decision, in New York, “unpublished decisions 23 may still be considered as persuasive authority” which is how New York courts view 24 “decisions of other (even superior) trial courts, federal courts, or courts of other jurisdictions.” Yellow Book of NY L.P. v. Dimilia, 188 Misc. 2d 489, 490, 729
N.Y.S.2d 286, 287 (Dist. Ct. 2001).

25 ¹² Significantly, as detailed below, both Di Petrillo and Feinberg rely for their 26 preemption analyses on Landgraf, which in the Order is discounted as not discussing preemption.

1 the preemptive reach of the TCA at all, any such preemption was not retroactive. Id.
2 Notably, this Court agreed that preemption only began on August 8, 2016.
3 Nonetheless, the Court held that Landgraf was not controlling because it did not 4 discuss preemption. Order at 14, n. 9. However, Landgraf is binding Supreme Court 5 precedent that covers all manner of statutes that litigants assert apply retroactively, 6 and nowhere suggests that it does not apply in the preemption context.

7 First, even decisions specifically addressing “continue in effect” preemption 8 clauses in failure to warn cases have expressly held that Landgraf applies to 9 preemption issues. For example in DiPetrillo, 729 A.2d at 680-81, in holding that 10 “continue in effect” language in a 1972 preemption clause did not extinguish claims 11 based on prior conduct, the court relied directly on Landgraf:

12 ... the conduct under challenge occurred between 1968 and 1972, 13 during which years the 1964 enactment of FIFRA was in effect. In 14 Landgraf v. USI Film Products, 511 U.S. 244, 114 S. Ct. 1483, 128 L.
15 Ed. 2d 229 (1994), the United States Supreme Court enunciated the 16 general principle that “the legal effect of conduct should ordinarily 17 be assessed under the law that existed when the conduct took place * 18 * *.” Id. at 265, 114 S. Ct. at 1497, 128 L. Ed. 2d at 252 (Emphasis added.). The Court directed that this principle mandates that subsequently enacted legislation should not be applied retroactively unless there exists clear evidence of congressional intent to achieve that result. Id. at 280, 114 S. Ct. at 1505, 128 L. Ed. 2d at 262.

19 Id. (emphasis supplied.) Indeed, in DiPetrillo, the court stated that the above “result 20 accords with decisions in the related area of tobacco litigation, in which courts almost 21 uniformly have held that the federal statute in effect at the time of the exposure should 22 be applied.” Id. (citing Kotler v. American Tobacco Co., 685 F. Supp. 15 (D. Mass.
23 1988), aff’d, 981 F.2d 7 (1st Cir. 1992), which held that the preemption provision of 24 the relevant federal cigarette labeling act should not be applied retroactively), and 25 Cipollone v. Liggett Group, Inc., 649 F. Supp. 664, 668 (D.N.J. 1986), rev’d in part 26 on other grounds, 505 U.S. 504, 112 S. Ct. 2608, 120 L. Ed. 2d 407 (1992)).

1 Similarly, in finding that the language “continue in effect” did not preempt 2 claims based on conduct before the 1997 enactment of a statute, the court in Feinberg, 3 2012 NY Slip Op 50515(U), relied on Landgraf:

4 It is clear to this court that this statutory language evinces an intention 5 to prohibit the imposition of new requirements by the States that would 6 differ from or conflict with federal requirements, and to bar the 7 continuing application of any conflicting State requirements that may 8 have existed before the Preemption Clause came into effect. This 9 language cannot be interpreted to reach back to extinguish any 10 legitimate claims that arose from the use of cosmetic talc products 11 prior to 1997. Such an interpretation would invade existing rights and 12 expectations in derogation of the cardinal rule against retroactivity.
13 See Landgraf, supra, at 269, 280.

14 Id. (emphasis supplied.) See also Ileto v. Glock, Inc., 565 F.3d 1126, 1138 (9th Cir.
15 2009) (discussing Landgraf requirement that for preemption, legislature must 16 manifest the retroactive nature of legislation with “clear intent,” as it did in the statute 17 at issue, 15 U.S.C.S. § 7902, which provided “[a] qualified civil liability action that is 18 pending on the date of enactment of this Act ... shall be immediately dismissed by the 19 court in which the action was brought or is currently pending.”).

20 Plaintiffs respectfully submit that reconsideration should be granted so that the 21 Court may address the clear error made and facts overlooked with respect to its finding 22 that Landgraf did not apply to preemption cases. As demonstrated in Plaintiffs’ 23 Supplemental Memorandum at 8-12 and above, Landgraf applies to all manner of 24 retroactivity cases, including with respect to statutory preemption, and the Final Rule 25 is not retroactive here. This comports fully with the Court’s own conclusion that 26 preemption only began on August 8, 2016. Thus Plaintiffs’ Dismissed Claims should 27 be upheld from the beginning of each statute of limitations through August 7, 2016, 28 including the Illinois state law claims.

1 5. Applying the Court’s Decision Would Have an Inequitable
2 and Potentially Irredeemable Impact

3 Reconsideration is also warranted because the Order as it stands would have an 4 unjust, injurious and potentially irredeemable impact. Each of the Dismissed Claims 5 had already accrued at the time the conduct that gave rise to it occurred. See, e.g., 6 Beaver v. Tarsadia Hotels, 816 F.3d 1170, 1178, 1188 (9th Cir. 2016) (holding that 7 under common law and UCL, cause of action accrues at the time all elements have 8 been satisfied and that depriving plaintiffs of a right that already existed to bring suit 9 was retroactive and required consideration under Landgraf). In dismissing them, the 10 Court deprived Plaintiffs of their right to bring these pre-existing claims that this 11 Court previously upheld, and left only one Plaintiff to go forward with only one claim.
12 Moreover, if the Order is not modified and Plaintiffs are left to appeal their claims at 13 the end of the case after final resolution of the remaining claim and are successful on 14 appeal, they will have to go back and take discovery after significant passage of time 15 during which evidence and witnesses may have become unavailable and memories 16 may have deteriorated. Moreover, because the supplemental briefing was 17 simultaneous, at the Court’s instruction, this injury was due to circumstances beyond 18 Plaintiffs’ control.

19 The Order, as it stands, is also likely to have a harmful impact on other 20 litigation. It sets an incorrect precedent regarding preemption that is at risk of 21 becoming ingrained in the law with respect to the new Final Rule which would divest 22 many other litigants of their claims as well. For this reason, too, Plaintiffs respectfully 23 submit that reconsideration of this important issue at this time is warranted.

24 C. If Clarification and Reconsideration Are Denied, Partial Judgment
25 Should Be Entered Under Rule 54(b)

26 If the Court does not clarify or reconsider the Order as requested above, the 27 Dismissed Claims, as well as the CAC Dismissed Claims (Claims I, II, III, V, and 28

VII¹³ of the initial Consolidated Amended Complaint),¹⁴ and the Dismissed Plaintiffs will have been dismissed in their entirety. Plaintiffs thus request, as alternative relief, that this Court direct entry of final judgment as to these Plaintiffs and claims, so that Plaintiffs may immediately appeal.

The first sentence of Rule 54(b) provides that, “when an action presents more than one claim for relief—whether as a claim, counterclaim, crossclaim, or third-party claim—or when multiple parties are involved, the court may direct entry of a final judgment as to one or more, but fewer than all, claims or parties only if the court expressly determines that there is no just reason for delay.” The primary issue as to whether there is “a just reason for delay” is whether the immediate judgment will make successive appeals on the same issues likely, or conversely, streamline the litigation. De La Torre v. CashCall, Inc., No. 08-cv-03174-MEJ, 2014 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 176332, at *9 (N.D. Cal. Dec. 22, 2014). The Ninth Circuit “ha[s] held that claims certified for appeal do not need to be separate and independent from the remaining claims, so long as resolving the claims would streamline the ensuing litigation.” Noel v. Hall, 568 F.3d 743, 747 (9th Cir. 2009) (internal quotation omitted). Here, there is no just cause for delay of judgment on these claims and issues.

The Dismissed Claims, CAC Dismissed Claims and Dismissed Plaintiffs are sufficiently severable that they would not require successive appeals. Presently, the ¹³ The CAC Dismissed Claims are based on the same laws (the CLRA, UCL, FAL, ICFA and NY GBL) as those cited in the SCAC, though the CAC also bases those claims on affirmative misrepresentations. This Court’s Order on the Motion to Dismiss the CAC (Dkt. 60) indicates that the CAC mis-numbered its last claim as Count VII, and, in that Order, this Court dismissed it as Count VI.

¹⁴ The CAC Dismissed Claims based on the CLRA, UCL, FAL, and NY GBL were dismissed only as to their affirmative misrepresentation theory, the ICFA claim was fully dismissed, and leave was granted to amend, which Plaintiffs did. In its dismissals in the November 1 Order, this Court eliminated the omissions-based portions of these claims that had remained live under the April 22 Order.

1 only non-dismissed claim is Count IV, brought by Plaintiff Whitney, on behalf of the 2 California Class seeking injunctive and equitable relief for violations of California's 3 Unfair Competition Law based on violations of Proposition 65. Plaintiff Whitney is 4 the only Plaintiff bringing that claim. Moreover, to the extent that Plaintiffs will 5 appeal from the previously dismissed affirmative misrepresentation portions of the 6 CAC Dismissed Claims, it will have no impact on the remaining claim, as Proposition 7 65 has nothing to do with affirmative misrepresentations. Moreover, any appellate 8 findings as to preemption will not be in contradiction with any order concerning the 9 remaining claim. Because the Dismissed Claims, CAC Dismissed Claims and 10 Dismissed Plaintiffs constitute the bulk of the claims and parties in this litigation, their 11 immediate appeal would appropriately streamline the resolution of the litigation.

12 D. As an Alternative, Plaintiffs Seek Certification for Interlocutory 13 Appeal pursuant to § 28 U.S.C. 1292(b)

14 In the event that the Court does not grant any of the foregoing relief, Plaintiffs 15 respectfully request certification for interlocutory appeal, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 16 1292(b), of the holdings on preemption set forth in the Order at 2-12 and 14-15, and 17 for a stay of the action in this Court pending a decision on that appeal. 28 U.S.C. § 18 1292(b) provides:

19 [w]hen a district judge, in making in a civil action an order not 20 otherwise appealable under this section, shall be of the opinion 21 that such order involves a controlling question of law as to which 22 there is substantial ground for difference of opinion and that an 23 immediate appeal from the order may materially advance the 24 ultimate termination of the litigation, he shall so state in writing 25 in such order. ...

26 Here, there is a controlling question of law as to which there is substantial ground for 27 difference of opinion. The Final Rule was issued extremely recently and the few cases 28 to have addressed it have reached different conclusions. In Greene, et al. v. Five Pawns, Inc., issued on August 30, 2016 (C.D. Cal., Case No. SA CV 15-1859) ("Five

1 Pawns”) (as stated in Plaintiffs’ Supp. Mem. at 2-8), another court in the Central 2 District concluded that state-law claims seeking additional warnings on electronic 3 cigarette products were not preempted by the Final Rule – the exact opposite of this 4 Court’s conclusion in the Order. This Court acknowledged the Five Pawns holding 5 in the Order, but disagreed with it. Order at 8. There could be no more clear sign of 6 a substantial ground for difference of opinion than the diametrically opposed 7 conclusions of two eminent judges of this District. In subsequent cases, district court 8 judges would be left with the confusing choice of which judge was correct on a black 9 and white issue of law. The Ninth Circuit should be permitted to rule on this issue so 10 that the Dismissed Plaintiffs and future litigants on this important issue will have a 11 definitive answer. Given that preemption ends a litigant’s claims entirely, and that 12 there is a single yes or no answer to this question, this presents the quintessential situation for immediate Ninth Circuit intervention.

13 In addition, resolution of this issue on immediate appeal may materially 14 advance termination of the litigation, because if Plaintiffs were required to wait until 15 the end of the case and then appeal, and Plaintiffs were then successful on appeal, an 16 entirely new trial, as well as new discovery on damages, would be required. If 17 certification for an interlocutory appeal is granted, Plaintiffs respectfully submit that 18 a stay of the action below would be warranted so that if Plaintiffs are successful on 19 that appeal, they would be able to rejoin the case below and all Plaintiffs and claims 20 could proceed together, maximizing judicial efficiency.

21 IV. CONCLUSION

22 For all of the foregoing reasons, Plaintiffs respectfully submit that the motion 23 for clarification should be granted, and the Order should be clarified to state that the 24 Dismissed Claims are dismissed only insofar as they concern conduct on and after 25 August 8, 2016. If such relief is not granted, in the alternative, Plaintiffs submit that 26 reconsideration of the relevant portions of the Order is warranted, and Plaintiffs

1 claims should be reinstated except to the extent that they concern conduct on and after 2 August 8, 2016. If neither of the foregoing is granted, for the reasons set forth above, 3 judgment should be entered under Rule 54(b) as to the Dismissed Claims, the CAC
4 Dismissed Claims and the Dismissed Plaintiffs. Finally, if the Court does not grant 5 any of the foregoing, all those portions of the Order concerning preemption should be 6 certified for immediate appeal pursuant to § 28 U.S.C. 1292(b).
